

Learning is a Journey

What does success mean to you?

What would it look like for your child to be successful?

Are there outdated ideas that aren't really a good fit for your child? What can you let go of?

What does it mean to be "good" at school? Is school "good" for your child?

If you could go back in time, would you choose a different educational path? Would you pick a different major?

Do you feel like your school experiences prepared you for the job(s) you are doing today?

What would you tell your 18-year-old self? Think about how old your kids are -- what advice would you give yourself at those same ages?

How might your child's educational journey differ from yours (or the way that you might have expected it to go)?
