

Myths About Learning Styles

Have you learned about learning styles before?

Do you know your preferred style(s) – and/or those of your family members?

Do you think knowing your learning style can help you at work, at home, or in your relationships?

What do your kids like to do in their free time?

Can you see a pattern or preference that can carry over to the classroom?

Would you like tips for ways to incorporate learning styles into homeschooling or homework?
